Cesar Franco, Chris T Buchanan : Independent Traveler Galapagos Handbook before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Independent Traveler Galapagos Handbook:

An up to date guide explaining the many options for vacationing in the Galapagos islands. While many visitors spend their entire trip in a tour, there are many independent adventures available in all price ranges. This convenient handbook includes: photos, maps, plant and animal descriptions, history, hotel and dining guides, as well as travel tips, visitor info, and transportation options. Booking tours, scuba diving, snorkeling, surfing, hiking, biking, and camping are also covered in detail. With this book you can design a personalized vacation to the Galapagos.

About the Author Chris T Buchanan is a biologist who first went to Ecuador in 1993 with the Peace Corps. She discovered the Galapagos in 1994 and has been returning to the islands every year. Cesar Franco is an Ecuadorian native and an internationally published photographer. He has been visiting the Galapagos several times a year for the past twenty years. Chris T and Cesar have also written and published The Ecuador Cookbook-traditional vegetarian and seafood recipes.
