I used to print maps off of the internet but they're not laminated, and they don't fold well, and if I end up using them a lot they lose information along the creases or just disintegrate altogether - these are 'heavy duty'. They're a little too big to fit into a pocket, but it fits right into my wife's purse or my camera bag and then I have quick access to it at any time I need it. It's also colored which makes it easier to read. The Montreal map covers the main city over 4 panels with the Parc Du Mont Royal at the center on the front, and then includes a metro map and a more detailed map of Old Montreal. The back side continues the map that's on the front side going further west, and an inset "Area Map" that covers outlying areas and major roadways. I only expect to use it for getting around the city in and around Old Montreal, and perhaps a trek out to the Jardin Botanique, but for $8 I figure it will be worth it. 2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Mixed feelings By David Bland I have mixed feelings about this map. It's well constructed and sturdy but hard to read especially in low light because it has to pack in so many streets. I don't know if there's anything that can be done about this for a map of an entire city that has to fit in a pocket or a purse. I don't know if there's an alternative that's better other than carrying around a much larger map, a tour book, or using a smart phone which probably won't show the entire city in a usable form. On our 2 1/5 day visit we did not use it as much as we thought we would, relying instead on tour books which contain maps of neighborhoods instead of the entire city. On the plus side, it does include a handy Metro map and a legend to look up streets by name. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Yet again, an elegant Streetwise map. By Kindle Customer Before Google maps, Streetwise put subway stations and routes clearly onto a great pedestrian or driving map. Even if you avoid bugs and are super tech savvy, these maps are a joy. While I haven't been to Montreal much in years, this neat map helped me get oriented. It is a joy for walking, especially if rain makes your iDevice a bad idea. And I have this 11 year-old subway fan who loves maps and has already gotten a dozen names to check up on YouTube. If nothing else, I can keep maps and subway tickets in the old briefcase, just in case I can visit ...

'Don't leave home without STREETWISE.' --The New York Times 'STREETWISE is an absolute travel essential.' --Travel + Leisure Magazine 'In a strange city, your sense of direction is only as good as the map in your hands. The best maps to carry are published by STREETWISE.' --Chicago Daily Herald About the Author STREETWISE is the first map to be designed with modern graphics and is the originator of the laminated, accordion-fold map format. We've set the standard that every map company has imitated but never duplicated. Our mission is to make you feel comfortable, to make you feel safe in a place where you've never been before and to enable you to experience a familiar place more fully. The company was founded in 1984 by Michael Brown, who had been in international publishing for many years, setting up subsidiaries for textbook publishers. In the 1970s, Brown traveled extensively throughout Africa, India, the Middle East and Southeast Asia. Brown would take a large paper map, cut out the city center, folded it up and slip it into his pocket, thus preventing him from looking like a tourist in areas where discretion is the better part of travel. This was his tool for surviving. After many years on the road, Brown settled back in New York and decided to start his own business, based on the adaptations he had made to maps in his travels. His goal was to give someone the ability to navigate easily in unfamiliar terrain. He started with a new map format: the accordion fold. Such a simple idea, but at the time it was revolutionary. No more struggling to fold an awkward, oversized paper map. This new format would enable the user to blend in like a native, instead of stick out like a tourist. Brown then added lamination to ensure that the map would be a lasting tool. More important than the format was the design of the map itself. It had to be a map that not only succeeded above and beyond any map he had used, but was esthetically appealing as well. The look of it had to be as striking as the functionality. Color was introduced in a way that was never seen before in a map - vivid purple for water, soothing gray for the background of street grids, gold to highlight elements of the map. Clarity, conciseness and convenience in a very stylish package. Building the business was a 24-hour job. Brown sold the maps during the day, zipping around Manhattan making deliveries on his Harley Davidson. At night he packed the orders and did the design work. More titles were added, each title requiring months of research and design. Today, STREETWISE produces over 130 titles for major destinations, regions and countries throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico, Australia, Europe, the United Kingdom and Asia. We have grown from the back of a motorcycle to selling millions of maps around the world. Yet each title is still painstakingly researched and updated. STREETWISE is one of the only, if not THE only map company that conducts research by walking or driving an area to ensure accuracy. After all, what good is the map if what you hold in your hands doesn't match what you see on the street sign? This lengthy fact checking results in superior accuracy; in effect, we've done the work, now you have the adventure. In the end, it's not about the map, it's about getting out and finding your own authentic experience wherever you go. It's about being in a city or a region and discovering things that you never thought you would find. You can do this if you have confidence and you have confidence if you have a great map. STREETWISE is the great map that you need.
