I would suggest to anyone buying this to get an earlier edition. This one has NO PICTURES. The guy had a very unique boat--it would be great to see some pictures. Also, this is sort of petty, but the guy's name was Captain Claus John Voss--not Captain Voss John Claus. Editors for publishing companies should be a little familiar with the subject of their books--at least with the author's

John (sometimes "Jack") Claus Voss (born Johannes Claus Vos; 1858-1922) was a Canadian sailor best known for sailing around the world in a modified dug-out canoe he named Tilikum (boat) ("Friend" in Chinook jargon). He started in 1901 with his friend Norman Luxton and ending alone in 1904. He chronicled this and other notable voyages in The Venturesome Voyages of Captain Voss.(wikipedia.org)
