His language is bright -- scintillating, even -- his views lucid, his descriptions vivid. As he and his buddy Dirk spend a fortnight in the backcountry of the Canyonlands of Utah, each bares, sands and polishes his past to bring strength to the journey they face. Throughout all, the immensity and solidity of the rocky landscape serves to both challenge and amaze them.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy

Jane R.I just love this book. Elegantly written, keenly observed. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful.
BRILLIANT BEYOND WORDS By Blackbull This is one of the best pieces of writing so far in the 21st century. Childs strips his ego naked in the full light of day as few writers have ever had the courage to do. Ernest Hemmingway, Jean Genet, and Tom Wolf never had the guts to go this far over the edge into absolute self-aware honesty. Along with THE SECRET KNOWLEDGE OF WATER, THE WAY OUT sets a whole new standard of excellence for English-Language writing.

- A breakout book from a writer increasingly celebrated as the 21st-century bard of the American Southwest--a writer in the tradition of Barry Lopez, Peter Matthiessen, Terry Tempest Williams, among others. - In March 2003, Craig Childs received the Spirit of the West Literary Achievement Award, given to a writer whose body of work captures the unique spirit of the American West. - As a chronicle of adventure, as emotionally charged human drama, as confessional memoir, The Way Out is a transcendent book, a work destined to earn a lasting place in the literature of extremes. - Not since John Krakauer's bestselling Into the Wild has a book so compellingly explored the boundary between wilderness adventure and madness.

For THE SECRET KNOWLEDGE OF WATER and SOUL OF NOWHERE: 'Utterly memorable and fantastic... certainly no reader will ever see the desert in the same way again' - Washington Post 'Childs's own feats of asceticism are nothing if not awe-inspiring; he's a modern-day desert father' - New York Times Book About the Author Craig Childs is a naturalist, adventurer, desert ecologist and frequent contributor to a US national radio morning programme.
