If you like this book you will want to read the following 99 cent books on early Wyoming area:1 The Journal of a Fur-Trading Expedition on the Upper Missouri 1812-18132 The Banditti of the Plains, or the Cattleman's Invasion of Wyoming in 1892 (1894)3 The Conquest of the Missouri, being the Story of the Life and Exploits of Captain Grant Marsh (1909)4 Early Fur Hunters, Mountain Men, and Explorers of Wyoming (1918)5 Wyoming Pioneer Stories (1918)6 Vigilante Days and Ways: the pioneers of the Rockies; the makers and making of Montana and Idaho (1912)7 Historical Sketch of the Flathead Indian Nation from the Year 1813 to 1890 ... and Sketches of History, Trapping and Trading in the Early Days (1890)2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. The trip that can't be done today.By Cliff LongE. L. Kolb and his brother navigated the Green River from Green River, Wyoming to the Colorado River and eventually to the Sea of Cortez. This is a good description of their trip. They photographed the trip with still and motion pictures. I have rafted the parts of this trip between Flaming Gorge Dam and the end of the Grand Canyon that don't involve the reservoir waters and the scenery and rapids are much as they are described in the book. It's a good read before boating these waters.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. What an Adventure to Behold!By Blair OramWhile rereading this historic narrative, I was blessed again with an appreciation for those, like the Kolb brothers, who have contributed so much to our unique American fabric. The weaving of history and adventure is complete in their exciting story, which except for a few had experienced up to that day!

With a Foreword by Owen Wister

About the AuthorELLSWORTH L. KOLB moved to Needles, California, shortly after the making of the film, but continued his work on the Colorado, teaming up with a barnstormer to pilot the first plane ever to fly in and out of the Grand Canyon. He passed away in 1961 at the age of 83. His brother Emery Kolb took the movie on the road but returned to the Canyon and served as lead boatman for a United States Geological Survey expedition through the Grand Canyon to map and survey the gorge in 1923. He continued to photograph tourists along Bright Angel Trail until his death in 1976 at the age of 95.
